

Meet some Instruments

Meet the French Horn

A member of the brass family, the French horn, (sometimes, simply called the horn) is one of the most difficult instruments to play in the orchestra. The horn is made up of several meters of brass tube coiled up so that the player can hold it comfortably in his/her hands. It makes a soft and velvety tone. Listen to a recording of any of the Mozart Horn Concerti.

